

The World

Published by the Press Publishing Company, 43 to 45 PARK ROW, New York.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 4, 1894.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO THE EVENING WORLD

(including postage)

FIVE MONTHS $1.00

TEN MONTHS $1.80

Vol. 75, No. 12,006

Entered at the Post Office at New York as second class matter.

BRANCH OFFICES:

WORLD OFFICE—Junction of Broadway and Third Ave. at 125 St.

WORLD HARLEM OFFICE—125th St. and Madison Ave.

BROOKLYN—299 Washington St.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Lehigh Office, 229 Chestnut St.

WASHINGTON—723 14th St.

THE WORLD'S

Average Circulation

For June, 1894,

462,522

per day.

For June 1895,

311,635

per day.

Gain in Three Years,

150,887

per day.

Readers of THE EVENING WORLD leaving the city for the hot months should send in their addresses and have THE EVENING WORLD mailed to them regularly.

Thanks, Senators, at last.

This is the Republic's New Year's day.

How are you, Croker? And where did you get it?

A fake investigation can have no other than fraudulent results.

Fourth of July, like seed time and harvest, shall never fail.

Now for New York's Declaration of Independence. Are you all ready?

Next Fourth of July should dawn on a greater, better and freer New York.

The Sugar Trust ought to have good reason to fear the conference at Washington.

Just verdicts are those which condemn Prendergast to the gallows and Shea to the electrocution chair.

No "straight" local ticket. Such a ticket is the product of the bosses, and New York is bossed too much.

With reasonable prompt action in the tariff conference at Washington there will be hope yet for the Autumn trade.

The deep red of industry's fires, the pure white of peace, the true blue of patriotism—these are America's own colors.

A Fourth of July celebration is one of those few things that can't be procrastinated. You've got to take it on the spot.

When last night's Sporting Extra of "The Evening World" passed the goal there wasn't a competitor close enough to be in sight.

The bill which passed the Senate yesterday was not the Wilson Tariff bill. It was the Gorman Compromise bill, which is a bill of another denomination.

In presence of the painful facts of the strike, let no one today lose sight of the greater facts of the grandeur, strength and permanence of the Republic.

Out of the great Senatorial sugar investigation has come the indictment of two reporters who are not even suspected of any complicity in the rascality under investigation.

It is very unfortunate that in the pending quarrel between the railroads and their employees the impartial position of the Federal Government will not be represented by a railroad lawyer.

It is patriotic to play good baseball, to make a good speech, to eat a good dinner, to have a good quiet day at sea-shore or in prove-in short, to do or have any one of the good things which come as rights, privileges or pleasures of any American citizen.

In the Riker's Island Inquiry ex-Assemblyman Wells said: "Let me say right here for some reason obstructing relief in this case. When anything is suggested you manage to throw a wet blanket on it." And he spoke the plain and bitter truth.

The trial of the police cases by the Police Commissioners must fill the soul of Convict McKenna with a sense of the unfairness of things. If Convict McKenna had tried his own case, it is safe to say that he would be to-day enjoying the sweets of liberty, enhanced by the triumph of a vindication.

Assistant District-Attorney Wellman will be indicted by the grand jury in the matter of the police investigations which he is to conduct under the auspices of Commissioners Martin and Sheehan. The grand jury committee has made it impossible for New York to rest on good grounds in this direction. If Mr. Wellman is handicapped through official sources, the public will perceive the fact at a glance. If he is left free to pursue the straight course which he says shall be his, results will tell.

TARIFF BILL PASSED.

The Senate showed some little respect for public sentiment when it passed the Tariff bill last night, and thus closed its disgraceful performance of the last three months, before the coming of the Fourth of July.

Of course, the result is not such as could be expected. The bill is disfigured so much that its friends in the House who sent it to the Senate might well be puzzled to recognize it. But its passage sends it back to the House, and there is hope that it may yet be restored to something of its original condition. Any way, the settlement of the tariff question in some shape is what is mostly needed to remove the paralysis of business and to set the commerce of the country again in motion.

There was not any great excitement in the taking of the final vote. Senator Hill, who was the only Democrat to desert his party, indulged in a parting yip at the income tax feature of the bill, but his written excuse for his vote with the Republicans was scarcely noticed. A laugh was caused by Senator Murphy's vote when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—38 to 35—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will succeed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

WELCOME BACK.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule. It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to say where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justice and fairness when he organized the race and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them blind obedience to his will.

He was quite independent of the requirements of Democracy when he tried to compel the Democrats of New York to vote for an unfit candidate whom they did not want for the Court of Appeals.

He comes appropriately, too, on the day given over to fireworks. There is something of the skyrocket about him. He went up with a rush and a great deal of noise and display. He is likely to come down like a damaged stick.

Welcome home, Mr. Croker. The city is not half as lively without you as when you are here. The people want to know where you got it.

A WORD TO YOUNG AMERICA.

"The Evening World" has a few words to say to its excellent and valued friend "Young America," on this anniversary of our National Independence.

The Fourth of July is essentially your day. For whom is it made if not for you? If it is not honored and celebrated by you, who ought its glories to be commemorated?

You will hear in some quarters and read in some newspapers of the blessings of peace and quiet to-day. You will be told that the police are instructed to restrain this or that unruly mob. You will be reminded that the streets of a city are not the place to explode Chinese crackers and fire off pistols and fuses.

Police! Make just as much noise as you like and have just as much fun as you can, Young America. The day belongs to you. It is only twenty-four hours long, and you will be foolish if you do not use it to its fullest extent. It is just as much recreation and enjoyment as you can.

At the same time, heed our advice. Be patriotic, but be prudent. Kindle the flames of patriotism, but don't set fire to the city. Remember that the language of the Declaration of Independence is by no means the language of a loaded pistol. Remember the Fathers of the Republic, but take care of the children of your neighbors. Glorify freedom, but don't hold lighted explosives too long in your hands. Remember the cause of a bunch of firecrackers held in close proximity to your eyes.

Then, when the last sky-rocket shoots upward and gracefully drops its colored lights through the air, and when the last bunch of firecrackers closes its deafening bombardment with a few belated explosions that have lingered behind, forgetting to go off with the crowd, you will retire to bed happy, without pain, free from bandages and plasters, with a clear conscience, and you will sleep soundly till the morning.

NO LATCHKEYS FOR FLUSHING.

There is news from Flushing, L. I., that will shake some home circles from center to periphery. And we wouldn't be astonished if it sent the price of corner lots in Flushing up so high that a purchaser will have to tie his money on a skyrocket stick to reach it. If the news is true, we cannot understand how an honorable man in possession of families that now suffer from husband-staying-out-patience can be averted.

Flushing has a playful little Vigilance Committee that takes in hand all married men who are found in the streets after dark at night, or who have the temerity to appear in public without the spell of a V-shaped jaw. The committee carries its captives to a park fountain and gives them a series of duckings. These duckings sober the drunken men and set the sober ones to thinking. In this way they may do good.

If that Vigilance Committee succeeds in making Flushing a paradise where married men will be home at 9 o'clock every night, every woman who gets married is already married. It will want to make her home in Flushing.

Home rule, rapid transit and emancipation from bosom. These are the New York City issues. Give them a thought on this Independence Day.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Home rule, rapid transit and emancipation from bosom.

These are the New York City issues. Give them a thought on this Independence Day.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

Chairman Wilson's endeavors to bring his bill back to a partially recognizable shape, in conference, will be watched with interest.

ALLEGED PLAYS BY SARDOU.

Many Said to Be Written by His Corps of Secretaries.

Large Additions to the Ranks of Unemployed Actors—Stage Gospel.

One or two American playwrights are beginning to openly express irritation at the manner in which the Frenchman, Sardou, has written a new play for Miss So-and-so, or that "the well-known New York manager has secured a new play by Sardou." Said one of the foremost drama-weavers of New York yesterday: "Sardou does not produce many plays just now, and his plays are not absorbing thought is of Paris. Paris is the world for him. He cares for nothing else, and a success out of France does not count, as far as his eminent man is concerned. Sardou keeps at least a dozen secretaries—well educated men and skilled writers. They receive big salaries, and they are made to earn them. All the jobs that the unknown ones believe that Sardou writes when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—38 to 35—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will succeed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule. It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to say where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justice and fairness when he organized the race and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them blind obedience to his will.

He was quite independent of the requirements of Democracy when he tried to compel the Democrats of New York to vote for an unfit candidate whom they did not want for the Court of Appeals.

He comes appropriately, too, on the day given over to fireworks. There is something of the skyrocket about him. He went up with a rush and a great deal of noise and display. He is likely to come down like a damaged stick.

Welcome home, Mr. Croker. The city is not half as lively without you as when you are here. The people want to know where you got it.

The mob of unemployed actors haunting the streets of New York and nooting from their doors on the side is constantly being augmented by recruits from the French capital. The Frenchman, Sardou, has written a new play for Miss So-and-so, or that "the well-known New York manager has secured a new play by Sardou." Said one of the foremost drama-weavers of New York yesterday: "Sardou does not produce many plays just now, and his plays are not absorbing thought is of Paris. Paris is the world for him. He cares for nothing else, and a success out of France does not count, as far as his eminent man is concerned. Sardou keeps at least a dozen secretaries—well educated men and skilled writers. They receive big salaries, and they are made to earn them. All the jobs that the unknown ones believe that Sardou writes when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—38 to 35—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will succeed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule. It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to say where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justice and fairness when he organized the race and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them blind obedience to his will.

He was quite independent of the requirements of Democracy when he tried to compel the Democrats of New York to vote for an unfit candidate whom they did not want for the Court of Appeals.

He comes appropriately, too, on the day given over to fireworks. There is something of the skyrocket about him. He went up with a rush and a great deal of noise and display. He is likely to come down like a damaged stick.

Welcome home, Mr. Croker. The city is not half as lively without you as when you are here. The people want to know where you got it.

The mob of unemployed actors haunting the streets of New York and nooting from their doors on the side is constantly being augmented by recruits from the French capital. The Frenchman, Sardou, has written a new play for Miss So-and-so, or that "the well-known New York manager has secured a new play by Sardou." Said one of the foremost drama-weavers of New York yesterday: "Sardou does not produce many plays just now, and his plays are not absorbing thought is of Paris. Paris is the world for him. He cares for nothing else, and a success out of France does not count, as far as his eminent man is concerned. Sardou keeps at least a dozen secretaries—well educated men and skilled writers. They receive big salaries, and they are made to earn them. All the jobs that the unknown ones believe that Sardou writes when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—38 to 35—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will succeed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule. It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to say where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justice and fairness when he organized the race and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them blind obedience to his will.

He was quite independent of the requirements of Democracy when he tried to compel the Democrats of New York to vote for an unfit candidate whom they did not want for the Court of Appeals.

He comes appropriately, too, on the day given over to fireworks. There is something of the skyrocket about him. He went up with a rush and a great deal of noise and display. He is likely to come down like a damaged stick.

Welcome home, Mr. Croker. The city is not half as lively without you as when you are here. The people want to know where you got it.

The mob of unemployed actors haunting the streets of New York and nooting from their doors on the side is constantly being augmented by recruits from the French capital. The Frenchman, Sardou, has written a new play for Miss So-and-so, or that "the well-known New York manager has secured a new play by Sardou." Said one of the foremost drama-weavers of New York yesterday: "Sardou does not produce many plays just now, and his plays are not absorbing thought is of Paris. Paris is the world for him. He cares for nothing else, and a success out of France does not count, as far as his eminent man is concerned. Sardou keeps at least a dozen secretaries—well educated men and skilled writers. They receive big salaries, and they are made to earn them. All the jobs that the unknown ones believe that Sardou writes when it was found to be different from Senator Hill's vote, and some pleasant allusions were made to the influence of one kind of collar being too powerful for another kind. The "explanations" offered by some of the Senators were listened to with impatience, and when the result was announced—38 to 35—there was a general feeling of relief.

It is to be hoped that the House will succeed in restoring the bill to something like its original shape, and that no time will be wasted in doing it.

Mr. Richard Croker has returned to New York according to schedule. It is fitting that he should come back on Independence Day. He showed himself independent of public opinion when he made his sudden and secret departure in apparent dread of the Lexow Committee.

He was independent of the sentiment of the people when he made a brazen show of his wealth and refused to say where he got it.

He manifested independence of the principles of justice and fairness when he organized the race and file of the organization over which he held the leadership the privilege of having an opinion of their own and required from them blind obedience to his will.

He was quite independent of the requirements of Democracy when he tried to compel the Democrats of New York to vote for an unfit candidate whom they did not want for the Court of Appeals.

He comes appropriately, too, on the day given over to fireworks. There is something of the skyrocket about him. He went up with a rush and a great deal of noise and display. He is likely to come down like a damaged stick.

Welcome home, Mr. Croker. The city is not half as lively without you as when you are here. The people want to know where you got it.

ACTORS TO PLAY BALL.

The Game May Add Much to the Sick Babies' Fund.

"1492" and "Passing Show" Teams at Polo Grounds July 10.

Do Wolf Hopper and Marshall P. Wilder Will Be Umpires.

Previously acknowledged. $1,732.14

Fair, 156 South Third Avenue, Mount Vernon, N. Y.

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building. 11.25

Invited to Home of Pulitzer Building